

Hundred Fifty-Four Sticks Of Dynamite Found Secreted Beneath Rock Ridge School

Relief Is Staff Was Stolen and Placed There for Safe Keeping.

ONLY PART OF THE LOOT

Discovery of Empty Candy Boxes, Cigarette Cartons and Other Receipts Evidence of Use as Storage Place by Thief; Hole Closed.

The community of Snyderstown was irked yesterday afternoon by the discovery of 154 sticks of dynamite under a Rock Ridge school house at that place. Wild rumors of plots to blow the place quickly circulated and on were quieted when it was learned at other articles, including empty candy boxes, empty cigarette cartons and other receipts, had also been found, conveying the impression at someone had used the spot as a hiding place at one time or another. The dynamite was found after school had been dismissed. Irvin Leichter, a janitor, whose farm adjoins the school property, thought his hens were laying under the building. He at his small son, Harry, under the building to look for eggs and he discovered the dynamite. It was in two boxes.

The school directors were notified immediately and the hole used as an entrance was ordered closed at once. Materials for this work were secured in morning and it will be completed in brick and concrete. The hole is reported to be hardly large enough for a man to get through unless he were of small stature.

The theory advanced regarding the dynamite is that it was stolen from a local farmer, the contractor putting in the Springfield road. There are two rooms in the school building. The teachers are Anna, ette and Roland Iker, both of Connellsville. There are 40 students in the room and 30 in the other. The case was reported to the county detective, who took charge of the explosive. He said it was said the office of the county detective was the theory that the space here the explosive was found was simply a place of storage; that there was no intention of blowing up the building. It was suggested also that the dynamite may have been taken here for use in some big job elsewhere.

Standard Miner Robbed By Lover of Daughter of $6,500, Secreted at Home

Special to The Courier.

MOUNT PLEASANT, March 14.—John Stefank, a miner at the Standard plant of the I. C. Frick Coke company, reported to the police here last night that he had been robbed of $6,500 in cash, the savings of 18 years, which he had secreted at his home, 110 named Charles Viskil, said to be from Morgantown, W. Va., who had been paying attention to a daughter, as the alleged thief.

According to Stefank, Viskil came to Mount Pleasant several weeks ago, and has been staying at a local hotel. Soon afterward they became acquainted and Viskil met the daughter and has been a regular caller at the Stefank home.

Viskil learned that Stefank had a large sum of money secreted in his home. He acquainted Stefank with the fact that he also carried a small fortune, $10,000, on his person. According to Stefank, Viskil displayed the money. With his new-found friend he liberally supplied with cash. Stefank said he had no fear that he would be robbed by him.

Saturday evening Viskil called on the Stefank girl. During the evening the members of the family came to town on a shopping trip, the girl included. Viskil complained he was not feeling like going up town and said he would stay and watch the house. He did. When the members of the family returned both Viskil and money were gone.

Asked why he had not informed the police earlier, Stefank said he was hopeful that Viskil had not left town and he had been watching for him Sunday and Monday. When he failed to locate the man by last evening he decided to take his troubles to the police.

No trace has since been found of the missing man or money.

M'CORMICK IS RE-ELECTED AS STREET HEAD

Councilman Wardley Withdraws Opposition to Incumbent in Office.

BERG MAKES STATEMENT

Superintendent of Department Retires. Stands That He Should Have Naming of Man to Fill Office, as Did Mayor in Choice of City Detective.

A fourth attempt by City Council to elect a street inspector ended in the choice Monday night of William McCormick, incumbent. The line-up against Mr. McCormick was broken by the defection of Councilman James Wardley from the three who had opposed him. Councilman B. L. Berg and Jesse A. Cypher, and championed the cause of "Bill," stood firmly for him. Mayor Mitchell voted no. Councilman C. M. Stone answered "not voting" to the roll call.

The mayor opened the subject, saying it should be settled one way or the other, addressing his remarks to Mr. Berg. The latter adhered to his previous contention that the superintendent of the street department should be allowed to name the street inspector, inasmuch as similar courtesy had been given the mayor in the matter of the city detective, J. W. Mitchell. In order, he said, that he might not be misquoted, Mr. Berg had prepared a written statement which he read and in which he said the members of council had supported the mayor in the choice of the city detective against their better judgment, to which the mayor replied they "shouldn't have done so."

Mr. Berg also charged that the mayor had made a pre-election pledge not to name his brother city detective. The mayor replied that he had made no such statement, adding that Mr. Berg could not verify it. Still maintaining his opposition to McCormick the mayor said that was no reason why the matter should not be settled; that it was up to Council to act. Mr. Berg presented the resolution for the election of the inspector and it was adopted.

After the vote had been taken Mr. McCormick was given the floor, at his request. He suggested that persons who have been attacking him put their charges in writing, referring to two of them, who were in the room, as mud slingers. He had not gotten well started in his statement when Councilman Wardley broke in with, "That will do now. This case is closed," and Mr. McCormick sat down.

"I'm perfectly satisfied," said the mayor, making the final comment of the election. Mr. McCormick was elected for a term of two years. Election of a member of the board of health to succeed Dr. Thomas R. Francis was held over until the next meeting. Dr. Francis is no longer engaged in the practice of medicine and it is held under a rule that from the State Department of Health there cannot serve as a physician member of the board. Dr. Francis was elected in 1920, presumably as a physician member. He had given up the practice before the time of his election and the question arose in the meeting of Council as to whether he held office as a physician or a civilian. Be that as it may, it was agreed that the board is short a physician member.

Members of the Fire Department are engaged in inspecting the telephone, telegraph and light poles in the city. Councilman Cypher reported. They have found Tri-State poles in bad condition, also many owned by the West Penn, he said. Lack of water pressure in the hill district of the West Side was again called to the attention of Council. The pressure is not sufficient to provide fire protection. It was suggested that the matter be taken up with the Public Service Commission.

An ordinance fixing the salary of the city detective at $340 was adopted.

FORTY-FIVE CONVERTED
Rev. Wyatt Close Revival Near Alverton, Starts New One.
Special to The Courier.
ALVERTON, March 14.—Evangelist G. W. Wyatt closed a most successful three weeks' revival meeting at Grandview Church on Thursday night. Forty-five persons were converted.

Rev. Wyatt left for his home at Findlay, O., on Friday and spent the week-end with his family. He returned Monday and started a revival at the Walnut Hill Church, near Pennsylvania.

Uniontown Men Shot
Al A. Torgart, of Coaling street, Uniontown, was shot late last night while in the act of descending from his automobile on Iowa street. A short time after the shooting Mr. Torgart's stepson, Walter Feathers, aged 39, gave himself up to Alderman John Darby and Constable Springer, saying, "It is alleged, that he had shot his stepfather." Feathers was taken to the county jail. The shooting, it is said, was the result of a family difference. Torgart's wound, it is thought, is little more than a flesh affair of the left side.

Classes to Attend Revival
The Ladies' True Bible Class and the McAfee-Hendlin Class, composed of men of the Mount Braddock Methodist Protestant Church, will attend in a body the revival services this evening at 7:30 o'clock in the church. Rev. G. W. Horton of Dunbar has charge. H. B. DeVoe, of Ohio, formerly of Conneltsville, has charge of the music each evening.

Col. Nicholson Dies
Word has been received by W. T. Kennedy of Uniontown of the death of Colonel John L. Nicholson of Philadelphia, a member of the Gettysburg Commission and one of the most widely known Grand Army of the Republic men of the state. Colonel Nicholson will be given one of the largest military funerals ever held in Philadelphia.

District Attorney Opposes License for Hill House, Scottdale

GREENSBURG, March 14.—District Attorney Nevitt A. Cort has filed a remonstrance in the clerk of court's office against the granting of a tavern license by the court to Dennis Shea, proprietor of the Hill House. He says that Mr. Shea was arrested by County Detective Paul L. Fogarty, October 22, 1921, for the sale of intoxicating liquor, beer and whisky and that the grand jury found a true bill against Mr. Shea, February 9, 1922; that he entered a plea of guilty February 9, and was sentenced by Judge Charles E. Whitten, to pay a fine of $200 and serve six months in jail. For this reason, Mr. Cort asks that no license shall be granted.
The district attorney also opposes a license for Charles Brenkus of North Belle Vernon.

Can there be any stronger proof offered than the evidence of Conneltsville residents? After you have read the following, quickly answer the question.

J. H. Kuhns, blacksmith, 712 McCormick avenue, Conneltsville, says: "Off and on for the past several years I have had occasion for a kidney medicine and Don's Kidney Pills are what I always use. My work is a severe strain on my back and kidneys. My back would pain me and sharp pains would catch me over my hips. I often felt tired out and run down and was unable to work as I should. My kidneys would also get too freely causing me to get up several times at night. When I had an attack of this sort, I would always use a box of Don's Kidney Pills and they would remove the trouble. I am pleased to recommend this old, reliable remedy." Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Don's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Kuhns had. Tara, "Beautiful Girl"

From the coming of Heron, husband of Tara, to the dissolution of Tara in the sixteenth century, 120 kings of the Scotch or Welsh stock ruled from their palace on the famous hill. In the annals of the Four Masters we read of the fourth in the list of Irish kings, the renowned Ollav Fola, who instituted the Ollav or assembly of Tara. His real name was Roche, the title Ollav Fola, or Doctor of Erin, being given him because of his extraordinary learning. The "Fela Tara" was the national parliament of the Ireland of its day and met triennially for one week at the period known as Samhain (three days before and three days after November day). The meeting was held in the open air in the weather and in the banquet hall in wet. This hall was 800 feet long and from 60 to 80 feet wide and had six or seven large windows on either side. The site can still be traced. The last king to reign at Tara was Diarmid, and no king after him even when called king of Tara, ever dwelt upon "the beautiful hill."

Girdle Reminder of Ancient Times

Girdles of metal, adorned with brilliant ornaments, now quite commonly used largely for purposes of ornamentation in women's dresses, is a reminder of the revival of a custom of ancient times when they were worn by both men and women to confine to the person their long flowing garments. They were not always of metal but often of linen or leather. The girdle also served as the support of weapons, utensils, bags or pockets etc. In the Middle Ages books were sometimes bound with a strip of flexible stuff hanging from one end of the volume which could be drawn through the girdle and secured.

Among some people even in this day, the girdle is put to practical use. Being large and loose, the scabbard of a sword or long dagger is pushed through the girdle instead of being hung from a hook or propped but on serving to hold it in place.

Scout Council to Meet and Organize For Ensuing Year

A meeting of the Local Council of Boy Scouts of Conneltsville will be held some time during this week. The necessity of organizing for 1922 is being discussed. It is being said that for that reason a large number of weeks late. There are a number of things for the Council to pass, on including bills for last year and arrangements for a camp this summer.

The lack of interest in the boys of the city by the merchants and business men and even some parents is deplored by active members of the Council. Enough of the men are not showing the right spirit they say and are regarding the process of scouting in this city. The work has practically been at a standstill for some time it is said and a number of persons who pledged money to the movement in a

COTTON TO BE IN LIMELIGHT

Dressmakers Are Ordering the Material in Great Quantities, Fashion Writer Says.

IS AS EXPENSIVE AS SILK

Demand Indicates That Price Will Be High—Manufacturers Bring Out Novelty in Imitation Silk—Jewelry Is Colorful.

Fashionable dressmakers are ordering cottons in great quantities, for the cotton dress will be the thing for the coming summer, advises a fashion correspondent in the New York Tribune. A question one hears on all sides is, will they be less expensive than silk frocks? And the answer is, no. Cottons are fashionable again, so why should they be?

Style creators have made many attempts in the past to force the cotton frock to the foreground, and although they often were successful no success that they have had is as nothing compared to the avalanche of orders for the glorified cotton dress that is pouring in to the fashionable dressmaking establishments. Its success far exceeds the most sanguine hopes of its sponsors.

Why should frocks made of cotton materials be preferred to those of silk and chiffon, and why should this style, brought out with trepidation—as are most new styles—have so quickly become a rage?

It is because cotton manufacturers, recognizing the almost unheard-of volume of the silk crepe dress, made cotton materials that very closely resemble crepe de chine, crepe marocain and even georgette crepe, and designers realized that the psychological moment at which to launch a new style is the moment at which the fire of a fashion that flamed to white heat are burning low and that the new-comer must to some extent carry the appeal of the old favorite.

Many New Weaves in Cotton. Manufacturers of cotton novelties are bringing out beautiful materials in imitation of silk. There is a cotton fabric called crepe rouman which closely resembles crepe marocain. And there is an almost perfect imitation of georgette made from finely spun and crimped cotton yarns of a delicacy equal to that used in the silk georgette.

In the makeup of these new cotton dresses they are as elaborate as silk. Many of them have drawn work of a distinctly new character which includes an embroidery in various-colored cotton yarns. Others have a stiff applique trimming in the form of fruits and flowers. Still others show clever combinations of two colors.

The adapting of materials that we have known for many years to new modes always has required the at-colors. These are known as garden frocks, as they may be in yellow, to match a planter's garden, or of pink, like the azaleas of the garden, or in the blue of the Mediterranean.

If you wish to be in the height of the mode buy or make some cotton evening dresses for this summer. They are very smart and there is no doubt that their popularity will increase with the approach of the warm summer evenings.

It is not entirely due to the fact that they are suitable to summer evenings that they owe their prominence, for we cannot point to many instances where the thermometer has had the influence of fashions that one might expect, especially in recent years, when we witness in June and August and silver in chiffon stockings in January. It is because they are different and carry with them a fresh appeal that women will receive them enthusiastically. They are reminiscent of colonial days, when the cotton frock was very picturesque with its ruffles and ribbons, its full skirt and its tight bodice. Then there is a strong element of informality about a cotton frock which a silk one lacks. Although the former may be much grayer in coloring and more elaborate in design, still we consider it less formal than a simple silk dress.

Simple Stitches Worked in Threads. One need not have evening dresses or cotton crepe elaborately embroidered and adorned with puffy downers such as many French dressmakers are showing. They may be very simple.

One must do something in the way of ornamentation, otherwise a straight-line dress of cotton crepe will be too closely related to an apron of the house dress but there are simple stitches which may be done in beautifully-colored cotton threads that will go a long way toward lifting such a dress out of the commonplace. As the new embroideries are in bold patterns and done with very heavy threads, a little of the work makes an excellent showing, especially if the colors are well chosen.

If you wish to follow the dictates of Paris in jewelry, wear black and white, black and green or either of these colors singly. Striking black and white effects are achieved through jet and onyx combined with pearls, crystal, ivory or more. The black-haired Parisienne wears effectively either pearls or jade. She does not need the black ornaments for contrast.

Seen at a fashionable restaurant in Paris were several dark-haired beauties wearing jade. One, who wore a dress of green and black brocade, affected long pendant earrings of jade and a string of jade beads which reached below her knees. Another, whose dress also was evolved from green and black brocade, displayed a hair band of green velvet studded with jet beads, which supported long strands of the black beads at one side.

Ivory and Jet in Combinations. Ivory and jet are being shown to great advantage in earrings and matching chains. Long chains of this combination have the round ivory beads with oblong jet beads between. Others are of alternating large and small beads, the former of ivory and the latter of jet. Tassels of small ivory beads and jet most effectively finish the ends of these chains.

Jet and ivory are also made up into chains, as well as more in graduated sizes intermingled with small flat crystal beads, the latter sometimes in color. These crystal beads, which are more appropriately called disks, as they are flat—come in all colors and make a very attractive combination against the dead white of the nares.

The long twisted chains of fine pearls finished with a tassel of onyx and pearls are very smart with black frocks. Pearl tassels having silver and marooned tops hang from chains made from silver links, alternating with small pearl beads.

Honest Tenant. An interesting and pertinent Londoner writes to the up-to-the-minute and latter of his contract, judging by the following "small ad":

"Wanted—Ten thousand loathsome black beauties, by a tenant who agreed to leave the premises in the same condition in which he found them."—Puncher News.

Has the Secret. "Mrs. Blank is an entertaining hostess and so clever." "Yes, indeed she never lets any of her relatives slug if they can't."—Puncher News.

Dress of Crepe Rouman in Castor Gray Embroidered With Cotton Chenille in Red and Ecru.

tenities of the cleverest people in designing. Few of us realize the amount of thought underlying a seemingly simple style. In the cotton dresses we not only have new ideas in the dresses themselves, but in the materials, which mean double force back of this movement.

One of the loveliest of the new French models is of crepe rouman in a beige gray shade and trimmed with embroidery in multi-colored imitation; fruits and flowers. The dress is finished with a beautiful girle made in a design exactly matching the pattern of the embroidery. When the frock is of a printed crepe the girle matches the design of the fabric. This is worth remembering, for if one is to have simple cotton frocks made at home they may be fitted out of the commonplace by a girle blending with the color and design in the material.

Frocks Harmonize Surroundings. Many women are ordering their cotton dresses with much the same idea in mind that an interior decorator has when she selects the chairs for a country house or the windings of a sun room; that is, matching or blending the colors with their surroundings.

French tourists traveling to Algiers and Tunis are ordering cotton frocks by the half-dozen, often the six being of one model but in different

Highlights In The Picture Of The New Apparel Fashions

IN FROCKS it will be a new color—a new fabric—a new line that will entrance you. A subtle cascading panel in Canton Crepe. A rollicking Sports model in Krepe Knit. Or the grandmotherly silhouette of a crisp little frock in Taffeta.

IN SUITS your heart will fly to the mannish, simply tailored Tweeds in the new and delicate pastel tints. Or to the over popular and ever becoming Navy Blues in Tricotine, Lignette and Poirer Twill. Nor will the Sportswoman pass by Trelaine, pronounced by New York to be the better Sports fabric of the season.

IN COATS you may choose a brightly colored, man-tailored model. In capes a jaunty thing in Tweed or a bright block plaid. In wraps a sumptuous garment fashioned in Pandora or Veldyne.

Ravishing Spring Silks Make Their Bow

Luscious bits of Taffeta that make little Watteau figures of the younger generation. Rich, rough-woven Krepe Knit, with its Oriental feeling, for Madame's frock or Sports costume. Quaint Paisley prints for frocks or to be used for the contrasting sleeves of a frock of darker material.

And, of course, Crepe de Chine and the gracefully draping Canton Crepe.

In Wash Fabrics—La Chine, a muslin in quaint old fashioned printings. Petal Bloom in this suggestive of well ordered garden paths. And Linens, flower colored, ready to be shaped into eye-taking garments for the frocks of summertime.

What Colorful Blouses!

Ma Oui! The colors as Paris has decreed them! Mobawk, a barbaric red. Marzo, the color of golden corn. Navy, White and Heima.

All heightened by contrasting beads that drape themselves upon a sleeve—in scroll patterns across a bodice. And by the new long, full fashioned sleeve, gathered tightly at the wrist.

New waists have new collars, named Peggy, Eton and Tuxedo and for materials use Emily, Volle, Pongee and Dotted Swiss. Some are remarkable for their dainty hand-drawn work and for their trimmings of real fillet.

One's Springtime Chapeau

expresses its moods in color. Delectable confections in Milan, Canton Crepe, Taffeta, Visca and Crepe de Chine in combination with tagal, honp, visca and other braids.

Favorite shades are black-and-white; periwinkle, henn, fuschia, taupe, jade and navy.

The trimmings are fruit and flowers. An occasional bird. Embroidery and glycerined ostrich. Sports shapes come in crushable felt and the ever popular Gage sailors.

The Interesting Accessories

For the short-sleeved frock, a lengthy glove! Paris has decreed it. And Paris has looked in her mirror and formed the wide meshed veil, chic beyond measure.

Countenance so drab a thing as a dull day? By all means no! One dispels it with a gay silk scarf flung to the winds of heaven. And faces a rainy day with a bright silk umbrella.

As for that provocative mink of a handkerchief, one chooses a sport kerchief in multi-colored Crepe de Chine. Two toned linen effects in cheeks and plaids. Or plain linen edged with the daintiest of laces.

Smart Sports Apparel

impeccably correct in every detail, can be found in gay profusion at Wright's. An important factor with the opening of the new Country Club to be remembered—and the unquestioned vogue of Sports Apparel for general wear this spring.

Bits to Brighten Up One's Home.

New Cretonnes—bright new Springtime patterns in floral and bluebird designs. Cretonnes are being used this year for hangings for doorways and windows, lamp shades, appliques, laundry bags, etc.

New Bedspreads—one is a plain homed spread, measuring 78x90 in a white conventional design. Another combines blue and white in a weave closely resembling dimity.

New Rugs—Elroy Worsted Wilton and Macao Wool Wilton Rugs in the deep-toned colorings that suggest Mohammedan climes. Combinations of grey and blue, rose and blue, etc.

GIRLS! LEMON JUICE WHITENS RED HANDS

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of Orchard White, which has a deep store will supply for a few cents a shake well, and you have a quart of pink, harmless and delightful lemon-lime lotion to soften and whiten red, rough or chapped hands. This home-made lemon lotion is far superior to glycerine and rose water to smoothen the skin. Famous stage beauties use it to bleach and bring that soft clear, rosy-white complexion, because it doesn't irritate—Adie Mennett.

More Than Half of Railway Expenses Is Paid in Wages

Even with an eleven per cent reduction in wages, made by the Railroad Labor Board, effective July 1, 1921, statistics just made public by the Interstate Commerce Commission show that for the four months ended on October 31, 1921, 59.47 cents out of every dollar paid out in railway operating expenses by the carriers went to employees in wages.

Of the carriers' wage bill which totaled $903,661,000 for that period only $25,111,751 or 2.81 percent went to executive officials and staff

Steps to which the carriers have gone in bringing about reductions, however, are indicated by the fact that while in July, executive officials and staff assistants received $4,371,552 or 2.98 percent of the total payroll, this amount has been reduced to $3,325,334 or 2.66 percent in October, the lowest for any of the four months.

Despite this decrease of $3,218 in October in the amount of salary received by such officials, compared with July there was an actual increase of seven in the average number of executive officials and staff assistants on the payroll during the four months, while there was an increase of 17,257 in the number of other employees during the same period.

The total compensation paid 1,696,000.

$16 employees in the month of July, August, September and October, 1921, $94,661,061, or a ratio of 4.57 to every dollar of operating expenses.
